That portion uncleared has but little underbrush. The wood will pay expense of clearing. Mostly level; no waste land: every acre can be utilized; several springs in various parts of the tract; all can be brought under irrigation, the ditch adjoining the land, although the trees in this vicinity do better without it, owing to the richness of the soil. Boone offered the following concurrent resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Irrigation and Water Rights:

WHEREAS, We as a body are aware of the great necessity, in a large portion of this State, for a just and equitable system of irrigation that will equably distribute the waters of the State so that the dry and unwatered sections shall be supplied with a proper share thereof for agricultural and other beneficial purposes; and whereas, it is apparent to the members of this legislative body that any extended legislation enacted at the present time on the subject of irrigation would be likely to result in the committal of the State to a policy that might result in great injury to large public and private interests; therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Legiclature that the best interests of the State will be subserved by limiting the action of this extra session to the submission to the people of the State of a constitutional amendment permitting special legislation in relation to water rights and irrigation matters, and that the plans and details for inaugurating and carrying out such irrigation system or systems be left to the people and to subsequent legislative action.

The Assembly met at 10 A. M., Speaker Parks in the Chair, and a quorum present.

Walrath, Chairman of the Committee on Irrigation, reported back Assembly bill No. 1, an Act to repeal Section 1422 of the Civil Code, and recommended its passage.

Mr. Morris yesterday morning arose, and, addressing the Chair, offered the following:

The reading of the resolution caused a little astonishment, for it was generally supposed that all purpose of removing the Judges died when the Davis bill was so completely smothered in the room of the Committee on Constitutional Amendments.

The following resolution was introduced several days ago, and ordered printed for the use of the members. It was before the House once or twice and finally made a special order. It was introduced by Mr. McJuuken:

The veterans of the war of the Union are to have a grand reunion during the first week of August next, at which time thousands of the heroes who fought with Generals Grant and Sherman during the dark days of 1861 and 1865 will visit this State from other States and Territories; and whereas, there are thousands of veterans who are residents of this State and engaged in active business, most of them as laborers, so that they are unable to control their time; therefore, be it

The members called for its reading several times, until the Secretary became so familiar with it that he could repeat it "without notes" Loud said the introducer of that loud-sounding resolution reminded him of the loyalty of the late Artenus Ward. He said the war was wrong, it must be put down, and he would see that it was put down if he sacrificed all of his wife's relations in the attempt. San Francisco was going to have a little side show on the 3d and 4th of next month. No other portion of the State would in any way, even in the remotest degree, be affected thereby. Yet this resolution asks to have the school-houses and banks throughout the State closed for two days next week. He thought the resolution should be voted down.

The resolution was defeated almost unanimously.

Walrath offered a substitute for Assembly Bill No. 2, relative to the repeal of Section 1422 of the Civil Code, as follows:

An Act to amend Section 1422 of an Act entitled an Act to establish a Civil Code, approved March 21, 1872, relative to water rights.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS. DEBATE ON THE TERRY CHARGES.

Immediately upon adjournment of the Senate yesterday, the Judiciary Committee of that body met for the purpose of considering the matter of appointing a committee to investigate the charges, or complaint, made by David S. Terry against Supreme Justices Morrison and Sharpstein.

complaint, if they should feel justified in so doing. The complaint filed by Judge Terry is merely preliminary, while the final hearing of the matter must be upon such charges as the investigating committee might prepare.

Mr. Boone presented a demurer to the complaint, alleging that it did not state facts sufficient upon which to base action.

Mr. Kellogg hoped the demurer would be withdrawn, as he believed the only duty of the Judiciary Committee was to report upon the advisability, or necessity, of having an investigating committee appointed.

Mr. Boone held that the complaint was insufficient to warrant the appointment of the proposed committee. Before taking cognizance of the complaint, he thought the parties on the other side should have a chance to be heard.

Mr. McClure argued that all the committee

Mr. McClure argued that all the committee should do was to appoint the committee asked for, and let that committee—after due inquiry—report something upon which the Senate might take action one way or the other. When a member of the Senate asks for investigation of charges against any public officer, the proper thing to do is to treat that request with the courtesy it descrives, and let the proposed investigation determine whether or not there be anything in the charges. He cited a similar case in Congress, in which this was the procedure, and the investigating committee found that the charges were based on malice, and the House dropped the matter. Even though the Assembly were to vote to oust a public officer, it would still be the duty of the Senate inquire into the matter for itself. He would recommend an amendment to the resolution providing simply that the Senate appoint a committee to inquire into the matter of certain charges. A demurrer is out of place unless this committee had itself formulated a complaint.

Boone defended his position at som Mr. Boone defended his position at some ength, and a running debate ensued upon the ubject of the propriety of entertaining a denurrer at that stage of the proceedings. Boone oncluded by agreeing with McClure's proposition to report the matter back and ask for the ppointment of a committee to investigate and ormulate a complaint, if the facts should so rarrant. Mr. Del Valle held that the Senate is the judge Mr. Del Valle held that the Senate is the judge of what should be sufficient cause for action. The duty of the Judiciary Committee is not to oresent a compilaint, but to advise investigation by a committee appointed for that purpose. The matter was quite fully debated by Boone, spencer, Del Valle, McClure, Kelloggand others. Mr. Boone offered a substitute to the original resolution that the matter be reported back to the Senate with a recommendation that a committee of investigation be appointed: and is justified action on the part of the Senate, should formulate a complaint and serve ice upon the Justices to appear and answer thereto.

Mr. Reddy argued that the first thing necessary is the filing of a complaint, and then the service of notice upon the accused. A man cannot be half tried and then served with notice to appear. He did not consider the resolution offered by Senator Baldwin as a sufficient complete the accuse this complete the server which this committee might are

Mr. Kellogg held that the charges filed on behalf of D. S. Terry did constitute a complaint, and that the proper procedure was plain and unmistakable. It was simply to recommend the appointment of the proposed committee.

Mr. McClure offered an amendment to Boone's substitute resolution, providing for a committee of nine Senators to investigate the charges brought to the notice of the Senate by Senator Baldwin against two Justices of the Suprene Court, and that the committee report whether, in its opinion, the charges have sufficient foundation to warrant any further action (or what ation to warrant any further action (or what burse of action) on the part of the Senate: the nittee to have power to send for persons committee to have power to send for persons and papers.

Mr. Boone opposed the amendment, on the ground that it provided for an actual trial by the committee. He thought the preliminary investigating committee should not go so far, but simply to ascertain whether, sufficient ground existed for any such investigation, by conference with the party making the charges! but simply to ascertain whether sufficient ground existed for any such investigation, by conference with the party making the charges Mr. Spencer thought the Constitution did not recognize the right of any man to introduce an idle resolution in either branch of the Legislature and thereby precipitate the trial of Judges of Courts for removal from office. No such action was contemplated without the filing of a formal and sworn complaint in each case. When some citizen of standing should present to the Senate sworn charges against a high State official, then only would the Senate be justified in taking action in the matter. The Senate has the right to require that the complaint now on file shall be verified by the oath of its author. In his opinion, the Constitution had not been complied with—that no complaint, as contemplated, had been filed.

Mr. McClure agreed that the so called complaint is not sufficient, and for one he would be willing to throw it out. But this matter has been precipitated, and its moral effects are already spreading among the people. If the matter were dismissed at this time, some one else will come before the Senate with a whole string of charges of like character, and finally some sort of investigation will be entered upon. He did not propose, for himself, to place it in the hands of any single individual to have an investigation against Justices of the highest Court in the State on trumped up or assumed charges of crime or incompetency. He wanted the

For nearly 34 years I have been a victim of Catarrh. I have tried many remedles, receiving little or no relief. IRRIGATION COMMITTEE.

The Assembly Committee on Irrigation and Water Rights met last evening, Mr. Edwards presiding. Mr. Goucher offered a substitute for Assembly Bill No. 3, but subsequently with drew it with the understanding that it will be introduced in the House to-day. It is understood to embrace some provisions that will be acceptable to the mining element. Hazard suggested that henceforth the bills relating to irrigation and water rights should be considered by the committees of both houses in joint session, in order to arrive at anything like a matual agreement or understanding of those subjects.

STANFORD AND IRRIGATION. Expressed.

His Views on the Vexed Problem Clearly By Telegraph.]
Washington, July 28th.—Senator Stan ford holds positive views in regard to the calling of the extra session. He has expressed his opinion and given his advice to his friends in California by wire, but as yet his views have not been given to the public. To day to the Observice correspondent lic. To-day to the Chronicle correspondent he went over the whole matter. He looks he went over the whole matter. He looks for held at $1.25@1.30, while poorer product is dull of sale at $1.10@1.20 \(\varphi ctl.

CORN—Better prices are obtained for Nebraska. The supply of California is very light. We quote as follows: California is 15.60.120 for choice large Yellow, and $1.25 to $1.30 \(\varphi ctl for small Yellow. Nebraska, $1.65@2.10 \(\varphi ctl for mixed No. 2 quality.

SEEDS—We quote: Mustard, $2.62.50 \(\varphi ctl for Brown, and $2.62.50 for Yellow; Canary, $34.63%c; Hemp, 56.53%c; Rape, 1½.62c; Timothy, 4½.65c; Alfalfa, 11.611½c \(\varphi b; Flax, $2.256 \(\varphi ctrittle, or any title to the waters of the rivers to fructify the sandy wastes of the valleys; but he is opposed to the idea that prior appropriators shall have the better title, or any title to the waters of the streams. He thinks that the extra session should go no further than to appoint a should go no further than to appoint a commission to investigate the water sys tems of the State, and divide the land that must be irrigated into districts. He favors the idea that the State should condemn the property rights of the riparian holders and pay them whatever damage is done by di-verting the waters from the channels. The ownership of the water should then be vested in the State, and the irrigated districts that get the benefit of the water should pay the cost imposed by the whole prior appropriators the better title to the water of the streams one of the greatest outrages he ever heard of. The second standpoint from which he views the whole subject is that in regard to the welfare of the Republican party. He thinks that the Republicans should do nothing that would hurt the unity or integrity of the organization. He hopes that the party will not split into factions on these questions. He is of the opinion that the party would be greatly strengthened if it faced the question calmly and adopted measures that would settle the irrigation uestion justly and fairly.

As to the effort to reorganize the Supre Court of the State, he cannot find words to express his opposition to a measure that would destroy the independence of that body. He is opposed to the plan of elect-ng Judges pledged to give certain kinds of pinions in cases that are to come before Especially to Women. Sweet is revenge especially to women. said the gifted, but naughty Lord Byron. Surely he was in bad humor when he such words. But there are com plaints that only women suffer, that are carrying numbers of them down to early graves. There is hope for those who suffer no matter how sorely or severely, in Dr. R V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." Safe in its action it is a blessing, especially to women and to men, too, for when wo suffer the household is askew. A Case Not Beyond Help. Dr. M. H. Hinsdale, Kewanee, Ill., advises us of a remarkable cure of consumption. He says. "A neighbor's wife was attacked with violent lung disease and pronounced beyond help from Quick Consumption. As a last resort the family was persuaded to try Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. To the astonishment of all, by the time she had used one-half dozen ottles she was about the house doing her own work." Thad. Stevens once having lost a cause in a County Court through a stupid ruling of the Judge, left the room, scattering im-precations right and left. The Judge straightened himself to his full hight, asstraightened finises to his toll fight, as-sumed an air of offended majesty, and asked Thad, if he meant to "express his contempt for this Court." Thad turned to him very deferentially, in feigned amazement, "Express my contempt for this Court! No. sir, I am trying to conceal it your honor." , your honor."
